PLAINTIFF WINS $500 IN FALSE TOOTH SUIT

When a furniture dealer does not get paid for his wares he can take them away from the customer, but the same rule does not hold good for a dentist according to a verdict given by a jury in the court of Judge George H. Buck this week. The suit was that of Josephine Mirata vs. Dr. C. M. Decker of South San Francisco.

It appeared from the evidence that Dr. Decker had made a set of false teeth for Mrs. Mirata, for which she neglected to pay, so when she came to his office one day he removed the teeth—forcibly, according to Mrs. Mirata, who then brought suit for assault.

The jury awarded the plaintiff $500 for damages for injuries which she claimed were received from the assault. Hereafter when dentists do not get paid for their false teeth or filling they must sneak up carefully on their customers if they wish to remove their goods, and take them without being noticed. Any show of force is to be avoided and only strategy used. Those who do not get paid for extractions would follow out this plan by replacing the un-paid-for tooth while the patient is sleeping or about to sneeze.

"PIONEER PAPOOSE" PROVES POPULAR PLAY

"The Pioneer Papoose," an operetta by Otis M. Carrington of the high school faculty, was staged Saturday evening at the high school. The production was a great success, and the house was well filled, as it always is when the Carrington operettas are played. The music of this production was the light catchy type and the plot of the play was made pleasing by the delightful humor which characterizes the writing of the local composer who appeared in this production himself in the role of Laymont, the medicine man. A feature of this production of the operetta was that the scenery for the occasion was painted by Professor Carrington to fit the scenes, and was made up of actual scenes in the mountains of California. The leading role was carried by Desiree Heydenfeldt, that of Waltzie. This was the first showing of this play five years ago. The part of Chief Tomahawk was taken by Robert McKee, Gilbert Findlay took the part of Prince Whiteface, with his usual clever manner, and Francis J. Starr in the role of Lillanush. The rest of the part of the pioneer was taken by Robert Poole. Every part was well taken and the whole production was enjoyed by the audience. A large measure of the success of this operetta belongs to the choruses which rendered the catchy airs in a very creditable manner. The first class and so on, Bowright, Artha Gordon as Moon-fair, and Delphine Simmons as Starlight and the two latter girls with Florence Mack in a dance added greatly to the success of the play. Music for the operetta was rendered by the high school orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Gaylord. The orchestra has been organized only a short while, and in that time have an almost professional rendition. Their music was much appreciated.

Donohoe struck and injured Virginia Rowland, minor daughter of the plaintiff, with his car, according to the complaint filed. One suit is by Mrs. Baciocco as guardian for her daughter and is for $25,000 personal damages. The other is for $5,318.45 demanded for the loss of companionship and services of her daughter while injured.

KIWANIS CLEAR DIRTY VACANT LOT

That the Kiwanis Club was formed for work and to accomplish results was amply demonstrated last Tuesday when the club adjourned from their regular luncheon meeting to clean up a lot across the street from the railway depot. Every Kiwanian wore old clothes and carried a garden spade to the lunch and immediately after the meal about forty men were at work cleaning up the lot which had been made a general dumping ground for tin cans, auto fenders, old tires, rags and other rubbish.

After the lot had been burned over, a truck load of junk hauled away, and a thickets of thistles cut down the appearance was far more presentable. This lot was picked on by the club as being the most conspicuous of the trains going through town and as being one of the dirtiest in town.

The meeting Tuesday was under the chairmanship of William Dussell. It was a short one because of the work ahead of the members. George Stafford gave a short talk which was received with a great applause. There was no other speaker.

WOODSIDE

Raymond von Savoye was the victim of an irresponsible motorist on last Friday evening. This driver, while trying to climb the Woodside grade on the wrong side of the road, caught the von Savoye car head on at the curve near the Live Oak Market. No one was injured, but both cars will need extensive repairs. Another reckless motorist, on Sunday, endeavored to test the power of his car against the Woodside inn. He was successful in treating the inmates of the inn to a fair imitation of an earthquake and wrecking the entrance to the hostelry in such fashion as to call for the services of several carpenters.

An effort will be made by the Coastside Civic Union, an association for the improvement of the coastside of the county, to secure the right-of-way of the old Ocean Shore railway for the purpose of building a road into San Francisco. The road is now abandoned, and if the road bed could be secured for the bed of a paved road, it would provide an excellently graded highway from the coast into San Francisco.

FORMER RESIDENT KILLS HIS WIFE

Floyd Wilder, formerly well-known resident of this city, where he was born and raised, came to a sad ending last Saturday in San Jose, where he shot and killed his young wife and committed suicide.

The double tragedy, which has darkened the lives of the two families caused by the visits of Mrs. Wilder to the cell at the county jail, where her former husband, J. W. Parkinson, was confined for bootlegging. Parkinson was released from the jail last week and came to the Wilder apartments with his former wife, thinking that Wilder was away. The jealous husband had suspected that this would happen and was waiting for them. When his wife entered three shots were fired, and Parkinson, who had waited outside, notified the police.

When the police entered the apartment, they found both Wilder and his wife dead. Notes addressed to the mother of his wife, to his own mother and to a child of his wife by her first husband were found, showing that the shooting had been planned beforehand.

Wilder is the son of H. C. Wilder of this city and Mrs. Hattie Wilder of San Jose. A sister Mrs. Grace Doyle lives in Oak Grove, Monday. Wilder until recently was a resident of Redwood City, where he was employed by the San Carlos Creamery and later by the Shell Oil Company.

KEEPING IT UP

CLEAN-UP WEEK comes to its grand finale today and the wind up will find Redwood City in a much cleaner and more attractive condition than it was last Saturday. But there is still much room for improvement, and clean up week will have failed in its purpose if the campaign for a cleaner town ends with the week. This should be only the beginning of a continual striving toward that which, in a town as in a person, is next to Godliness.

The Kiwanis Club has been very active this week in the campaign for cleanliness, and their efforts last Tuesday resulted in the cleaning up of one lot which has been a disgrace to the town for years. The vacant lot across from the railway station, which has been gradually accumulating rubbish of all kinds for years is once more presentable to the gaze of those who look from the train windows.

Individual property owners have taken an interest in the work, and marked improvements have been made. One property owner has harvested a huge crop of thistles on his lot on the corner of Broadway and the Highway, and a great improvement in appearance was made thereby. If his neighbor across the way would do the same, the town would at least present an orderly appearance to the tourist who comes this way from the Highway.

Much credit is due to Charles Dimmitt and his committee for the manner in which they have handled this campaign, and if the town has benefited by their work, the citizens who appreciate a clean town owe them a debt of gratitude for the time which they have freely given and the effort they have made in improving conditions here.

THE AUTOMOBILE

IN a ride through the county recently we were surprised by the number of cars along the highways in every part of the county. Among the redwood forests of the mountains every level spot held one or more automobiles; the coast was lined with them and in every little valley and grove among the hills camping and picnic parties had stopped. What influence will these thousands of people making an exodus from the crowded cities every week to the open country make upon the people?

The automobile will counteract in a great measure the baneful effects of the big cities. Man, whether we accept the dictum of science or believe with W. J. Bryan that man was made of mud, retains the nature of a wild animal in many ways. The outdoors, the boom of the surf on the rocks, the campfire, and the wind among the trees all appeal to aboriginal instincts that will not be subdued even by the walled streets and sidewalks of a city. These instincts call for satisfaction, and their suppression causes only harm.

America is called the cradle of the sixth race, a race in process of formation. On this formation, the automobile will have a great influence. The new race will be a race strengthened by the sunshine and fresh air of the country. And with the health of the outdoors will come the wisdom which belongs to nature. As nature is everything which exists, a wisdom of nature must be broad and all encompassing. The new race will be wise and will understand the secrets of the outdoors. The automobile seems a crude instrument to initiate a new race into the mysteries of all creation, but the Great Architect who can use a rock to record his work, does not scruple at using humble tools to perform great works.

NOTHING NEW

EXCAVATIONS recently completed on mounds built by prehistoric races in Missouri have proved beyond doubt that the race which built these mounds had a very accurate and general knowledge of astronomy and of the form, size and general characteristics of the earth. Discoveries in Egypt, and among the ruins of prehistoric structures in Mexico, Peru, India and Great Britain have shown similar knowledge, and have shown that this knowledge has been preserved to posterity in all of these far separated lands in the same manner, viz by the relation of circles, angles lines and symbols.

The Britton of two thousand years ago was ignorant of the meaning of the circles whose ruins in rocks still stand in England, Wales and France; the Indians of America knew nothing of the world which the mounds which they inhabited were intended to delineate. And in Egypt, the average native of today falls far short of the intellectuality which planned and superintended the building of the pyramids.

The common idea of a wonderful growth from darkest ignorance to modern wisdom in a short two thousand years is without foundation. Ignorance and knowledge have always existed side and side, and even today in our self-styled age of enlightenment the sect at Zion City believe the world to be flat. Ignorance and knowledge, like good and evil, are co-existent in every land and age. If an age has been characterized by its ignorance, it is because the wise have been known only to each other, and have not spoken in public.

The truths which science demonstrates today formed the basis of religion thousands of years ago and of religion today. Often the truth has been lost in the fable which was intended to preserve it, but the truth is still there.

Like good and evil, knowledge and wisdom, will continue for ages yet to be co-existent, but virtue is in wisdom, and though ignorance must still exist honor will be to those whose work is education.

PIONEER PAPER HAS CEASED PUBLICATION

After 55 years of continuous production on the same press, the "Inyo Independent," one of the pioneer weekly newspapers of California, will suspend publication, if Editor Harry Glascock, owner, carries out his present plans, July 9, 1925.

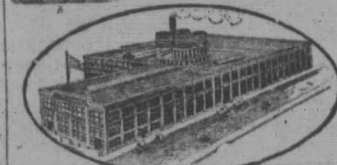

Glascock has announced that the financial burden of publishing the old paper has become too great, due to loss of income by the "Independent" since the City of Los Angeles had bought and dried up the farms in Owens Valley immediately surrounding Independence. Although the method of compensating such damages by the City of Los Angeles, is to be invoked by the property owners of Owens Valley, it has come too late to help Glascock keep the old "Independent" alive.

He announces that he will pension the old press, the first press brought into California, an old Washington hand press, now surrounded by a polished brass rail in the "Independent" office. This press was shipped from New York in 1848, was diverted to Baton Rouge, where it was used by the "Dime Catcher," a paper that supported Zachary Taylor for president; reshipped to Panama, where it was lost by the overturning of a barge in the Chagres river; salvaged from the mud, it was set up and the "Panama Herald" used it for a year.

The press arrived in San Francisco in 1850 on a sailing ship and was used by the "Placer Times and Transcript" until 1851, when it was sent to San Diego for the new "San Diego Herald," the paper for which John Phoenix, who founded American humor writing, wrote his now famous "Phoenixiana." The Mormon settlement at San Bernardino bought it and used it until Brigham Young recalled all "satans" back to "Zion," when it was packed in a wagon and dragged across the deserts and mountains to Aurora, Nevada, a boom mining camp, where a young reporter, named Samuel Clemens, who was to become famous as "Mark Twain" began his literary career. A staunch Union paper, the "Aurora Times," its editors and its press, were guarded by loyal shotgun deputies during civil war days.

When Aurora fell, the old press was again loaded on a wagon and was hauled to Independence, where on July 9, 1870, it turned off the first issue of the "Inyo Independent," a duty it has performed without interruption weekly since that date.

Glascock is disconsolate over the necessity for suspending the old weekly; but there seems to be no help for it. Independence has declined from day to day ever since Los Angeles bought up the water rights and diverted the water into the aqueduct. From the "Independent" office way-

Cleaning Without Odor by the F. Thomas Process

Our many years of experience has taught us that it is impossible to do perfect cleaning with cheap, inferior methods. That is why we found it necessary to invest nearly $500,000 in the equipment of a plant and the establishment of an expert organization to do the quality of work demanded by our customers.

With the "F. Thomas Process" we not only remove every particle of dust but we return your garments without that usual disagreeable smell of gasoline. Every drop of gasoline we use in cleaning is redistilled and very highly refined.

Raw gasoline—the kind that you buy for your automobile—is full of heavy oils and unfit for cleaning fabrics. It is little better than ordinary kerosene and leaves a sickening gasoline smell in your clothes.

EXCELLENT CAST SUPPORTS ALICE TERRY IN NEW FILM

One of the most interesting of the new photoplays to be shown locally next week is Paramount's society drama, "Any Woman," which will show at the Sequoia Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, June 17 and 18.

This screen play not only boasts the authorship of Arthur Somers Roche, one of America's most gifted writers of fiction, but the direction of Henry King, and the attractive personality of Alice Terry—three factors that make it well worth seeing.

Another strong point in the picture's favor is the unusual array of talent that Director King has assembled to support the tautly Miss Terry. Ernest Gillen, a new film "discovery" has the leading male role. He is a young Latin player, able and good-looking, for whom Mr. King speaks a brilliant future. Thelma Morgan, the well-known society beauty, has an important part in the film, and the others in the supporting cast include Henry Kolker, Lawson Butt, James Neil, Arthur Hoyt and Margarita Fischer.

The story was adapted by Beatrice Van and Jules Furthman. It depicts the intimate and vital problems that confront a popular and wealthy society debutante, who is forced to earn her own living when her millionaire father loses his money.

The picture raises an interesting question: Is beauty a handicap or a help to a working girl? The society girl soon learns that her employers are not so much interested in her business efficiency as they are in her personal charms. Eventually, through no fault of her own, she is named as the correspondent in a sensational divorce suit, which indirectly, leads to a happy and satisfying ending.

One of the novel and thrilling features incorporated in the production is "the treasure hunt," the latest fad of the smart social set. This unique game has never before been pictured on the screen and is guaranteed to be a big success.

ICE everyday helps keep sickness away

Food doesn't have to be spoiled to be unhealthful. Many ills of children—and grown-ups, too—are due to the use of food kept in too warm a temperature. Science says you cannot keep perishable foods pure and wholesome in a temperature warmer than 50 degrees. The safe way—the only sensible way—is to keep ice in your home all the time!

STUDENT ACTIVITIES AT SEQUOIA HIGH

By DALLAS COININE FRESHMEN PRESENT PLAY

On Wednesday, June 10, nearly 300 people attended a play entitled "The Freshman Answer." The play was written and directed by Miss Wurzbach, the Freshman advisor. The writer and the class deserve much credit for their work at this time and for the wonderful spirit they have shown throughout the year. The proceeds of this play is to be given to the Annual and the Student Loan Fund.

The play had a simple plot which in the end showed clearly that the Freshmen had the best answer to Mr. Argo's question: "Why Do We Attend High School?" Several songs and short skits were featured in the play. The humor was furnished by the continual jokes cracked, which were at the expense of the Sophomore class. These jokes drew a big laugh because of their quality.

The play ended with a presentation of a Sequoia flag to the school.
